Description	Established in 1967, Hungkuang University has developed into a comprehensive educational institution with a distinguished reputation in nursing education. Our campus spans 99,219 square meters with 19 buildings, including administrative building, teaching facilities, library and information center, sports hall, research building, fitness center, student dormitories, and cafeteria. The campus houses 87 regular classrooms and 415 specialized laboratories for hands-on learning. The university comprises five colleges: Nursing, Medical and Health Care, Human Science and Social Innovation, International Hospitality and Tourism, and Intelligent Technology. We offer 21 departments and 7 graduate programs, notably featuring Taiwan's only Nursing Doctoral Program among private technological universities. Our General Education Center ensures students receive well-rounded education beyond their specialties. From our foundation in healthcare education, we've expanded into diverse fields including food and nutrition, healthcare management, industrial safety, environmental engineering, early childhood education, elderly care, medical engineering, and cultural industries. Recent developments include innovative programs in physical therapy, speech and hearing, and animal conservation. All these academic programs pivot around our commitment to university social responsibility (USR), focusing on improving human well-being and creating meaningful social impact. Keeping pace with technological advancement, we've ventured into emerging fields such as e-sports and unmanned aerial vehicle applications. Through cross-disciplinary integration and innovation, Hungkuang University continues to advance its mission of promoting comprehensive human well-being and professional development for learners at all stages of life.
Mission Statement (in English)	Our core value centers on "Begin from oneself, extend benevolence to all." We aspire to be the top technological university in health and human welfare through providing quality education and professional services. Our mission is to cultivate outstanding talents, promote social responsibility through USR initiatives, and collaborate with communities to enhance societal well-being.
